ABOUT MARTIAL SIMON

Martial Simon is a New York City-based producer and DJ known for blending timeless pop and dance classics with modern electronic production. His sound lives at the intersection of electro dance, slap house, bass house, nu-disco, and dance-pop—creating high-energy records designed for both the club and global streaming audiences. With a natural instinct for melody and rhythm, Martial's productions deliver instant familiarity with a modern edge.

As a producer, Martial Simon has built a powerful digital footprint, amassing 150K+ monthly Spotify listeners, 17M+ global streams, and 36M+ short-form video views across TikTok, Instagram, and YouTube. His releases—including "Kryptonite (I'm On It)," "Don't You (Forget About Me)," "A Little Respect," and "Send Me On My Way"—have earned consistent playlist support, chart traction, and global reach across dance and crossover markets. *His single "Two Hands" is currently charting Top 15 on the Billboard Dance Charts, cementing his position as a producer with both commercial momentum and club credibility.

Equally experienced on stage, Martial has performed across major U.S. markets and international destinations, with residencies in Chicago, Los Angeles, Miami, NYC, Orlando, and Washington, DC. He has shared the stage with and performed for artists, celebrities, and tastemakers including Adam Lambert, Chris Brown, Jay-Z, Nelly, MGMT, Scarlett Johansson, Leonardo DiCaprio, and Shaquille O'Neal. Whether producing chart-ready dance records or commanding festival, nightlife, and branded stages, Martial Simon continues to position himself as a global electronic artist with both credibility and momentum.
