JOAILLERIE

Manifesto

«My fascination with jewellery dates back to childhood, to those moments when I would watch my mother sitting in front of her mirror, carefully opening her jewellery box. One by one, she would take out treasures, each linked to a story, an emotion, a moment in her life. Every piece of jewellery carried its own narrative. Through her stories, I felt as though she possessed the most beautiful jewels in the world. That is probably where it all began.

Later, this fascination became more tangible, nourished by books on gemmology, countless sketches, and those suspended moments spent contemplating the landscapes around me.

Today, when I design a jewel, I try to capture these images and inspirations: the mountains visible from my window, the turquoise blue of alpine lakes, the sparkle of snow beneath the sun. I create jewellery as one preserves a memory, giving it form, allowing it to live on in another way, and passing it on. My creations emerge from the encounter between nature and design, reinterpreted through the lens of creativity. Each piece is unique, inspired by the lines, textures, and light found in the natural world.

From one-of-a-kind creations to bespoke commissions, every jewel is crafted between Paris and Milan with the utmost care, using exceptional gemstones. Jewellery created to connect with a story, to embrace a fragment of emotion, and to wear what touches us most deeply..»

Matteo Mascheroni

An Italo-Parisian designer, Matteo Mascheroni has spent several years in the world of luxury, working as an artistic director for major fashion houses. A branding expert with a deep understanding of the industry's codes, he now chooses to assert his own vision by launching his own jewelry collection.

Passionate about design, lines, and materials, Matteo brings a sensitive eye to jewelry, an object that is both intimate and meaningful. More than a jeweler, he becomes a storyteller: each creation embodies an emotion, a memory, a fragment of inner landscape.

With the launch of MM Joaillerie, he embraces a vision of personal luxury rigorous yet sensitive, sculptural yet alive.

Savoir faire

For Matteo Mascheroni, nature is a language. Each jewel evokes a landscape:

the silent power of glaciers, the mineral purity of mountains, the enveloping warmth of a Mediterranean cove.

Through organic lines and raw materials, his creations capture fragments of nature suspended in metal, like memories to be kept close. They unite a sensitive aesthetic with the discipline of contemporary design, giving rise to pieces that are timeless, sculptural, and deeply alive. A poetic signature shaped by the pursuit of pure beauty and lasting emotion.

Each jewel is entirely handcrafted between Paris and Milan, in workshops selected for their exceptional expertise. From the casting of the gold to the final polishing, every stage is carried out by passionate artisans whose technical precision is matched by a profound artistic sensibility.

This artisanal approach makes every piece truly unique. Made-to-order production also creates a dialogue with the client, allowing us to understand their vision and bring to life a jewel that reflects them in the most personal way.

Caletta

The Glacier collection draws its inspiration from the purity of frozen landscapes. Each piece reveals the crystalline beauty of ice through a minimalist design, where the gemstone appears suspended within the gold, held in place by an almost invisible setting.

A celebration of natural elegance and the majestic beauty of glacial horizons.

Grigna

In the majestic silence of the mountain peaks, a range traces a line of connection, natural and absolute.

The Grigna wedding band draws its inspiration from this raw and timeless bond: two polished surfaces separated by a V-shaped groove set with diamonds, like two mountain slopes meeting in the light.

Minimalist and sculptural, this white gold ring celebrates the certainty of a lasting love — a beauty free of artifice, like a link carved directly from the rock.

Nasca

Born from the meeting of luminous depths and the raw mineral character of volcanic stone, Nasca evokes the crystal-clear waters of a hidden cove.

Shimmering between shadow and light, it captures shifting reflections of blue and green, like a precious ripple gliding across dark rock. A creation that embodies the quiet strength of untamed nature, poised between mystery and radiance.
