Trustee Candidate: David Kazansky

David Kazansky is a former three-term elected Teacher-Member Trustee of the Teachers' Retirement System, serving from 2015–2024, with fiduciary responsibility for the retirement security of NYC educators, administrators, and school-related professionals.

- A careful, well-prepared trustee for 9 years at NYCTRS
- Played a leading role in asset allocation, investment oversight, and long-term risk management at TRS
- Co-chaired the City actuary selection committee
- Contributed directly to TRS investment policy and governance practices
- Helped develop and advance the UFT's Fix Tier 6 campaign and was Trustee for Tier 6 improvements and implementation of Paraprofessional auto-enrollment

David is currently a classroom teacher in NYC public schools, bringing real, day-to-day educator experience to the Retirement Board.

David's Priorities as Teacher-Member Trustee

- Protect TRS's long-term stability through disciplined investment oversight and sound actuarial funding
- Exercise independent fiduciary judgment, especially in private market investments, fees, and risk
- Advance pension equity, including Tier 6 reforms, stronger cost-of-living protections, and continued TDA improvements
- Ensure transparency, accountability, and good governance in all TRS decisions

Alternate Candidate: Ben Morgenroth

Ben Morgenroth brings deep financial and analytical expertise to the ticket.

- NYC public school math teacher for over a decade
- Adjunct Lecturer of Mathematics at Hunter College
- BA from Brown University (Applied Math–Economics)
- MA from Hunter College (Applied Mathematics)
- Former hedge fund quantitative analyst, specializing in investment risk and performance analysis
