From the Desk of the Apostle by Apostle Collins

"The Spiritual Significance of February 2026"

February, the second month of the year, is often symbolically associated with themes of harmony, partnership, and balance. In biblical literature, the number two frequently signifies unity and relationship rather than isolation. This is evident in Genesis 2:24, where the union of Adam and Eve into "one flesh" highlights the theological significance of relational alignment. Such imagery underscores the biblical emphasis on partnership; whether spiritual, interpersonal, or communal; as foundational to human flourishing and covenantal life.

From a seasonal perspective, February serves as a transitional period, particularly in the Northern Hemisphere, marking the shift from winter toward the anticipation of spring. This natural progression offers a fitting metaphor for spiritual formation. Periods of waiting, stillness, or perceived barrenness are not necessarily signs of stagnation but may serve as preparatory stages for renewal and growth. Scripture often affirms that divine transformation unfolds in seasons of patience and trust, rather than in moments of immediacy.

Thus, February invites attentiveness to divine timing. This season encourages discernment, reminding us that spiritual formation often occurs beneath the surface. It aligns with the broader biblical view that waiting is not passive but an active expression of faith.

Moreover, following the heightened expectations and resolutions of the new year, February presents an opportunity for inward reflection. It is a time to reassess spiritual orientation and practices, ensuring that intentions are not just aspirational but aligned with theological conviction and ethical consistency. Psalm 46:10 "Be still and know that I am God" captures this call to reflective stillness, emphasizing divine sovereignty and human receptivity.

The observance of Valentine's Day within February further anchors the month in a discourse on love. While commonly associated with romantic expression, a theological reflection broadens this focus to include divine love and its ethical implications. This invites consideration of how love, rooted in God's character, is embodied in human relationships and communal life.

Taken together, February may be seen as a liminal season marked by harmony, reflection, and preparation, calling individuals and communities to cultivate patience, relational integrity, and attentiveness to God's ongoing work of renewal.

Lady's Corner By Lady Collins

Psalm 90:12 urges us to "number our days, that we may gain a heart of wisdom." This verse invites us to reflect thoughtfully on living with purpose, emphasizing the importance of making wise choices that align with God's will.

Human life is brief and fleeting, a theme underscored throughout Psalm 90, which contrasts human frailty with the eternal nature of God. To "number our days" is not merely to count them but to recognize their limited nature and steward them wisely. In biblical thought, the "heart" represents the core of one's being, encompassing the mind, will, and character. Therefore, to gain a heart of wisdom is to cultivate discernment that leads to decisions honoring God and intentional living.

Such wisdom calls us to focus our time and energy on what holds eternal value, rather than being consumed by distractions or temporary pleasures. Purposeful living requires us to plan our days thoughtfully, prioritize meaningful pursuits, and exercise maturity in our conduct and responsibilities.

The Apostle Paul echoes this call to maturity in 1 Corinthians 13:11: "When I was a child, I spoke as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child; but when I became a man, I put away childish things." As we enter 2026, this exhortation challenges us to grow in spiritual maturity, reflected in our speech, understanding, and reasoning.

Let us pray, therefore, to live each day with purpose, gratitude, and divine wisdom, recognizing that our time on earth is a precious gift entrusted to us by God.

The Leaders Point by Evangelist Bledsoe

Blessings to you all. As we enter this season of eating meat and manifesting the one true living God, remember that Abba Father is God in all seasons. He knows your name and all your ways; nothing is hidden from Him.

If you are questioning the why and the how, be encouraged: the answers are found in prayer. Prayer is a form of communication with our Holy Father, involving both pouring out your heart and allowing God to pour Himself back into you. This is 'The Great Exchange.'

In prayer, you will find your needs met and your garment changed. You will discover answers, strength, peace, comfort, guidance, and strategy. Whatever you need is found in prayer, along with much more, for God cannot be exhausted. Remember that God can answer however He desires. As you pour out your heart to Jehovah Jireh, knowing He has supplied your needs, remain vigilant for His answers. Our Father's will for our lives is revealed in prayer.

In this meat season, we approach God not to beg for our wants but to align with His will for our lives. Prayer is essential in every season, especially as you have come so far by His grace! When clarity seems distant, go to prayer and express your needs. Remember, He wants to hear from you and for you to hear from Him. Engage in this practice and watch your relationship deepen through prayer.

"Don't be pulled in different directions or worried about a thing. Be saturated in prayer throughout each day, offering your faith-filled requests before God with overflowing gratitude. Tell Him every detail of your life." Philippians 4:6 (TPT)

The Future...What's Going On?

by Brother Juanya Britton

As one semester ends and another begins, congratulations for the progress made. Countless subjects have been navigated, social challenges overcome, and steps taken toward future goals. The transition from the familiar to the unknown has been met with courage and victory.

The Bible assures us that God will not allow us to be tempted beyond what we can bear. Approach the new semester with unwavering faith, expecting excellence in the face of challenges. A strong finish is shaped by consistent preparation, study, and discipline from the start.

"Have I not commanded you? Be strong and courageous. Do not be afraid; do not be discouraged for the Lord your God will be with you wherever you go."- Joshua 1:9
