

5 IELTS Speaking Templates

(IELTS Tips)

1. ORE

Opinion → Reason → Example

Best for: direct opinion questions

Structure:

👉 Opinion → Why → Example

Example:

"I'd say it's becoming more common. The main reason is that people rely heavily on technology nowadays. For instance, many prefer online communication over face-to-face interaction."

2. BSO

Both Sides → Opinion

Best for: balanced / discussion questions

Structure:

☞ Side A → Side B → Your opinion

Example:

“On the one hand, technology makes life more convenient. On the other hand, it can reduce real human interaction. Personally, I think the benefits outweigh the drawbacks.”

3. CES

Cause → Effect → Solution

Best for: problem-based questions

Structure:

👉 Cause → Result → Solution

Example:

“This issue mainly arises because people have busy lifestyles. As a result, they don’t have time to exercise. One possible solution would be to promote flexible working hours.”

4. PPF

Past → Present → Future

Best for: change over time questions

Structure:

👉 Past → Now → Future prediction

Example:

“In the past, people used to rely on traditional media. Nowadays, digital platforms dominate. In the future, I believe AI will play an even bigger role.”

4. GSP

General → Specific → Personal

Best for: abstract questions

Structure:

👉 General idea → Specific detail →
Personal example

Example:

"In general, people value convenience in modern life. This is especially true when it comes to shopping habits. In my case, I often order things online to save time."