

Aerial View Showing the Layout of The Grid Ijora.

IPS48

THE GRID, IJORA

The Grid : Recharging Lagos' Creative Energy.

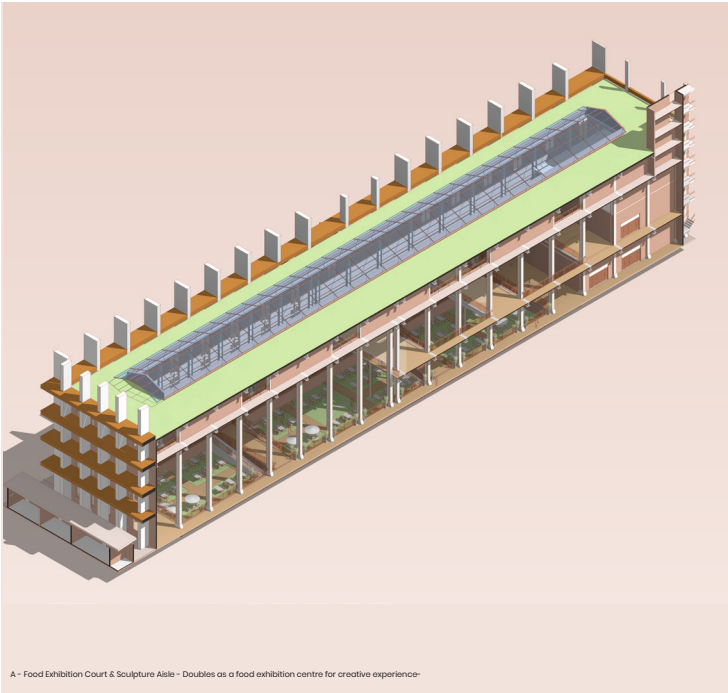

Once a powerhouse of Lagos' industrial era, the abandoned Ijora Power Station is reborn as The Grid—a creative energy hub where art, innovation, and culture converge. Just as the power grid once distributed electricity across the city, this new space channels a different kind of energy: creativity.

The grid pattern, once symbolic of power distribution, becomes a bold design language woven into the building's exterior and design theme. Undulating facades and dynamic forms reflect the pulse of Lagos—a city that never stops moving, never stops creating. This architectural rhythm mirrors the city's heartbeat, turning the structure itself into a living artwork.

At The Grid, artists, designers, and visionaries plug into a shared current of ideas, sparking collaborations and igniting movements. Open studios, exhibition areas, and communal zones are designed to inspire and connect, while the once-static walls serve as canvases for expression. Patterns and materials draw from Lagos's rich cultural heritage, blending diverse tribes and ethnic groups, into a vibrant tapestry.

The Grid is more than a space—it's an ecosystem. Informal traders and artisans find a home here, with flexible market stalls and skill-sharing programs that bridge the gap between the informal and formal economies. Sustainability is woven into the design, with solar panels, rainwater harvesting, and green spaces that reflect Lagos's resilience.

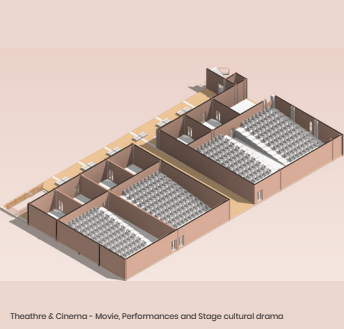

Stores & Brands Exhibitions Green Area Bedroom Design Studio Audio Station Driveway Circulation

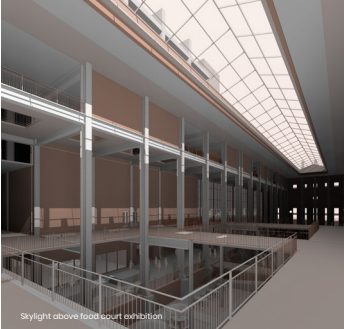

A - Food Exhibition Court & Sculpture Alley - Doubles as a food exhibition centre for creative experience

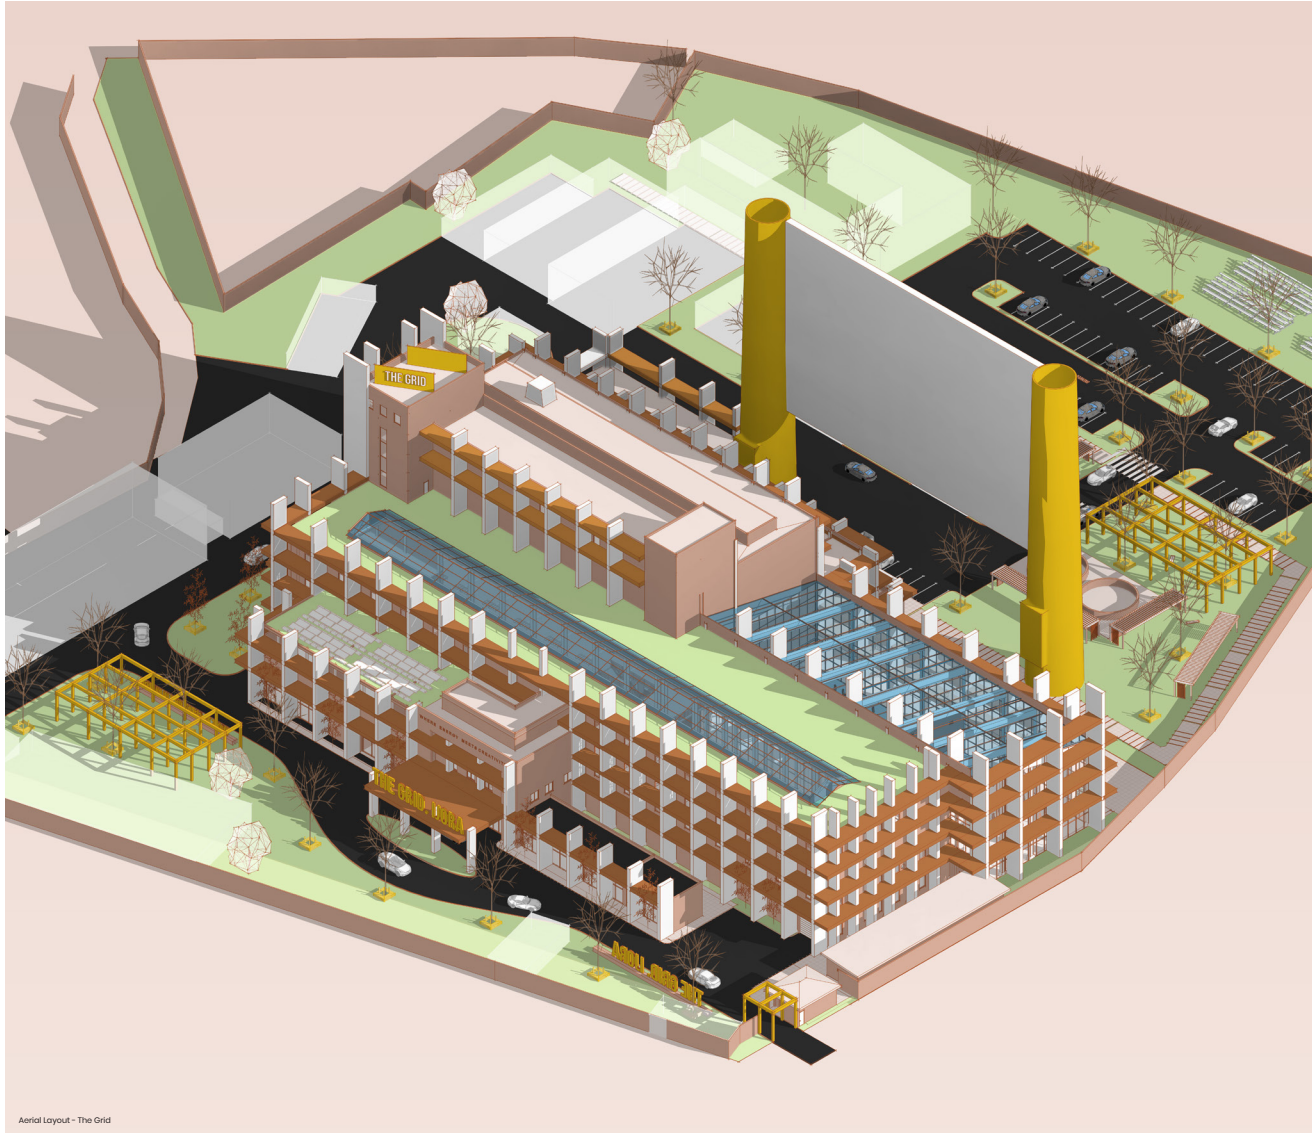

A - Food Court - Lower Floor Level

Theatre & Cinema - Movie Performances and Stage cultural drama

Brightdoor Plaza - Creative workspace

Aerial Layout - The Grid

D1 - Ground Floor Plan

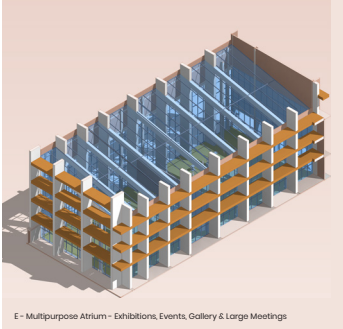

D2 - First Floor Plan

D3 - Second Floor Plan

D4 - Food Court - Lower Floor Level

E - Multipurpose Atrium - Exhibitions, Events, Gallery & Large Meetings

The Bear Pavilion - The Grid

Approach Road - The Grid

Grid - The Grid

IPS48

THE GRID, I J O R A

