

VISUAL IMPACT OF THE PROPOSED REDDESTONE WIND FARM

Photographic Visualisation – Indicative Only

This image has been digitally created from a photograph taken on the New England Highway north of Glen Innes. Wind turbines have been added to illustrate the potential visual presence of turbines on the ridgeline.

The image is not an official project photomontage, engineering drawing, or verified visual impact assessment. Turbine locations, spacing, and dimensions are indicative only and are intended to assist the community in understanding the possible scale and visibility of large modern wind turbines within the landscape.

Residents should rely on official visual impact assessments and project documentation for definitive information.