

RONALDA SULLIVAN

Ronalda Sullivan is the Founder and CEO of Dream Differently®, where she inspires women navigating life's unexpected disruptions to find clarity, reclaim hope, and give themselves permission to begin again. A United States Air Force veteran and federal civil servant with more than 34 years of service, Ronalda brings powerful storytelling, grounded wisdom, and a deeply compassionate presence to every stage she steps on.

Through transformational keynotes and conversations, she challenges audiences to stop waiting for life to return to what it was and begin imagining what it can still become. Her work has resonated with audiences across the United States and internationally, including women leaders in Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

At the heart of Ronalda's message is a truth that is both deeply personal and universally empowering: one painful chapter does not get to write the whole story.

One painful chapter does not get to write the whole story.

Topics

- When Life Changes Without Permission
- Rebuilding When the Life You Planned No Longer Exists
- From Fog to Freedom
- Finding Clarity, Hope, and Permission After Disruption
- The Permission You've Been Waiting For
- Why Women Must Stop Apologizing for Wanting More

Interview Questions

- What does it mean when life changes without permission?
- How did your own life interruptions shape the work you do today?
- What do women often misunderstand about starting over?

HOW DO YOU WANT PEOPLE TO CONTACT YOU AS A FIRST?

Email: ronalda@ronaldasullivan.com

Website: <https://ronaldasullivan.com>