DOGS WITH WINGS

Dogs With Wings Assistance Dog Society (DWW) is a registered Canadian charity based in Edmonton, Alberta, dedicated to transforming lives through the breeding, raising, training, and placement of highly skilled assistance dogs. Founded in 1996, the organization has over 30 years of experience supporting individuals with disabilities, professionals in high-stress environments, and vulnerable communities across Alberta and Western Canada.

Dogs With Wings is mission-driven, aiming to empower individuals by partnering them with accredited assistance dogs while fostering independence, wellness, and community connection. We are an Assistance Dogs International (ADI) accredited school, ensuring our dogs and training programs meet rigorous global standards.

Our specialized programs deliver support to address a wide range of community needs. These include:

- Mobility Service Dogs - which assist individuals with physical disabilities by performing tasks such as retrieving items and opening doors;
- PTSD Service Dogs - which provide emotional regulation and support to individuals coping with trauma;
- Facility Dog - serving child advocacy centres, schools, hospitals, and law enforcement agencies to support children, victims of crime, and front-line workers;
- Companion Dog - focused on delivering comfort, connection, and improved mental health outcomes.

The strength of Dogs With Wings is its community-based model. The organization is heavily supported by volunteers who help raise, support, and socialize dogs throughout their development, which typically spans up to two years.

The impact of each trained dog is significant. Over its lifetime, a single dog can positively influence thousands of people, particularly in environments such as hospitals, schools, courthouses and crisis response settings where emotional support and stability are critical.

We are excited to have you join our family !

Mobility Service Dog Program

Mobility Service Dogs are trained to support individuals living with physical disabilities or mobility challenges. These dogs assist with everyday tasks such as retrieving items, opening doors, and providing stability, helping their handlers navigate daily life with greater independence and confidence. By removing physical barriers, they empower people to engage more fully in their homes and communities.

PTSD Service Dog Program

PTSD Service Dogs are specially trained to support individuals experiencing the effects of trauma, including post-traumatic stress disorder. These dogs provide grounding, comfort, and a sense of safety in moments of stress or anxiety. For veterans, first responders, and others living with trauma, they act as both a calming presence and a bridge to reconnection—helping individuals regain confidence and stability in their daily lives.

Facility Accredited Dog Program

Facility Dogs are placed with professionals in environments such as hospitals, schools, police services, and child advocacy centres. Working alongside trained handlers, these dogs support individuals during some of life's most challenging moments, whether helping children share their stories, comforting patients, or assisting those navigating trauma. Their presence enhances emotional, social, and therapeutic outcomes, often impacting not just one person, but entire communities.

Companion Dog Program

Companion Dogs provide meaningful, day-to-day support within the home for individuals who may not require a fully accredited service dog but still benefit from the presence of a highly trained dog. These partnerships focus on companionship, emotional well-being, and improved quality of life, helping individuals feel supported, connected, and less alone in their daily routines.

THE JOURNEY

The Early Foundations: Puppy Raising

The journey begins in a loving volunteer puppy home, where young dogs are introduced to the world around them. From basic obedience to socialization in everyday environments, this phase builds confidence, curiosity, and good habits. Puppy raisers play a critical role in nurturing each dog's temperament, preparing them for the more advanced learning ahead.

Building Skills: Advanced Training

After their early development, dogs enter formal training with professional instructors. Here, they learn specialized skills tailored to the needs of individuals living with disabilities. From opening doors and retrieving items to providing physical and emotional support, each dog is carefully guided to develop reliability, focus, and adaptability in a wide range of situations.

Matching and Team Training

One of the most meaningful phases is the matching process, pairing each dog with a person whose life they will transform. Compatibility is thoughtfully assessed to ensure success for both partners. Once matched, the dog and client begin team training together, building trust, communication, and a deep bond that will define their partnership.

A Commitment to Excellence—and Impact

Not every dog will ultimately become a certified service dog. In fact, only about one-third of dogs complete the process and graduate into full service roles. This rigorous standard ensures that every working dog is fully prepared and confident in their abilities.

But every dog matters, and every dog makes a difference.

Dogs who follow alternate paths continue to create meaningful impact as companion animals, ambassadors, or in other supportive roles. The care, training, and love they receive throughout their journey ensure they enrich lives in ways that are just as powerful.

A Lifelong Difference

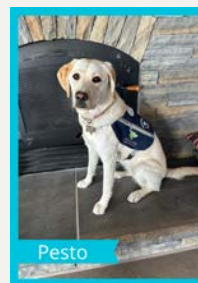

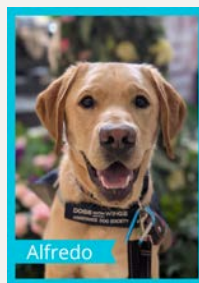

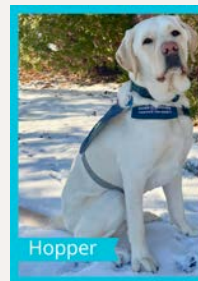

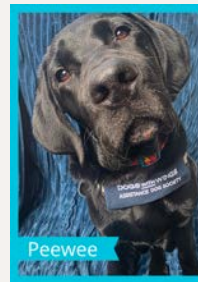

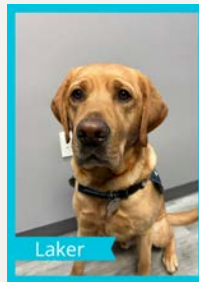

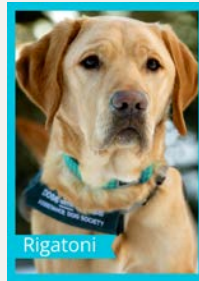

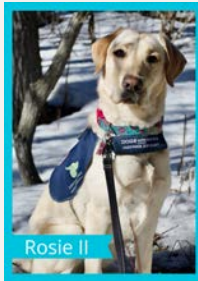

For those who graduate, the impact is extraordinary. Dogs with Wings service dogs empower individuals to live with greater independence, confidence, and connection. They can assist with daily tasks, provide stability, and offer a calm, grounding presence whenever it is needed.

Beyond the practical support they provide, these dogs bring something deeper: companionship, comfort, and the reassurance that someone is always there. Supporting this lifecycle means helping every dog reach its fullest potential and helping every person they serve experience greater freedom and dignity.

At Dogs with Wings, the goal is not just to train dogs, it's to change lives, one partnership at a time.
