

Track Record

A Lifetime of Building

For more than four decades, Larry Greene has worked across development, construction, asset management, property operations, and business leadership. The projects have ranged from single assets to large portfolios, from ground-up development to adaptive reuse, from housing and mixed-use communities to commercial and industrial properties.

The work has spanned multiple market cycles, economic environments, and disciplines. While the projects themselves differ, the underlying focus has remained consistent: identifying potential, assembling the right people, and helping ideas become reality.
