YEAR IN REVIEW

March 28

Vanessa "Vany" Masterson launched her very own advice column, tackling questions like: "What do you do when your teacher is unbearably boring?" and "What's your advice for getting along well with your brother or sister?" Some of the advice Vanessa offered included, "Every time you have an argument with a sibling, just leave the room. You can also stay and talk things out if you'd like to. And if you feel like an argument is about to come, start talking about something both of you like, and you will forget about it by dinner."
